ONE OF MORGAN'S PARTNERS HAD TO SELL HIS STOCKS

One Explanation of Big Slump in Wall Street Market - Russell Sage Says the Decline is Due to Midyear's Natural Condition and Predicts Good Trading Soon - Bulls Fight for Control

One explanation given for the heavy liquidation in stocks which the leading men of Wall street fought hard with much success to check to-day is that a partner of J. Pierpont Morgan loaded up heavily with a line of securities and being caught, went to Mr. Morgan and asked the giant financier to help him out.

Mr. Morgan flatly refused.

"I will not help you," he said. "If you have loaded up unload and go it immediately.

"Get out of the stock market or resign as a member of J. P. Morgan & Co."

There was no alternative for Mr. Morgan's partner. He began to unload the heavy line of securities ne carried and the slump in prices, which has puzzled the financial world for a fortnight, followed.

An Evening World reporter went to Mr. Morgan's banking house to-day and called the attention of George W. Perkins, Mr. Morgan's right

"It is absurd," was his comment. That was all he would say. Another explanation of the decline in market values was given by Russel Sage to an Evening World reporter.

"The stock market is not demoralized," said Mr. Sage to-day. "It is what is known as a declining condition, with promises of quick reaction within a month. The present aspect of the stock market does not indicate a decrease of prosperity or a money stringency.

"Its tone is not one of demoralization, but may be truthfully expressed as a declining one. This does not mean, either, that the decline will continue indefinitely. Prices will rally within a month.

CONDITIONS NATURAL.

There i no doubt that the market is disturbed. When these disturbances, which are periodical and regular, occur, they are regarded by the public as being more than mere disturbing agencies. The public thinks then that things are going all to smash. A serious aspect is taken of Wall street affairs by the outsider, while the experienced man in stocks and finances knows the actual causes and can explain them. "One reason why the market is in its present condition is because of he semi-annual filing of reports of affairs of great corporations and conerns which are the life of the stock market. "These reports are filed on July 1 and again on Jan. 1. Following these periods there is always a decided movement in the market. The movement up or down may be traced to the nature of the reports. "Showing good returns, the market is responsive; showing fair results, the market reflects the mood of the investors. Stockholders who believe 'they know' unload their holdings because these reports may be fair or bad. These very stockholders then seek other fields for their investments and become busy with other stocks that they think they know all about. "In a word, they become dissatisfied with their investment in the first instance, and in withdrawing carry others along with them. Those whom they sell to are of similar mind, and when the general exchange are concluded, toward the end of the month, the market assumes its usual condition

"Then a healthy tone is communicated throughout the market.

NO WAR OF MAGNATES.

It is foolish to declare that Messrs. Rockefeller and Morgan are waging a financial war against each other or that their individual influences are responsible for the present decline. Messrs. Rockefeller and Morgan do not wage war in that sense—they do not make money out of each other." Here the financier smiled significantly, making it plain that the lambs of the street are the prey of Messrs. Morgan and Rockefeller,

"Aother feature which may have considerable influence is the fact that the Pennsylvania Railroad established a loan of $75,000,000 for its great contemplated improvements. Stockholders in that big corporation did not all appreciate that the borrowing of $75,000,000 by the Pennsylvania road was a comparative trifle to that concern.

"Stockholders believed that a crisis was reached when such a loan became necessary, and many of them sold while the high-water mark was on. "This and other influences mentioned are directly traceable as causes of the decline. It is only temporary, and within a month the market will

Stocks that showed greatest improvement at noon included Chicago and Northwestern, Lackawanna, New York Central and Illinois Central. There was another sharp decline in 'Frisco receipts for Chicago and Eastern Illinois stock. While dealings eased off a bit, the market continued strong all through the afternoon. A slight shading in long-time money, together with further buyling for London and other European accounts, helped in no small measure to strengthen the market. Purchases for Europe are said to have exceeded 60,000 shares.

SQUEEZES DEALER

For Selling Cigarettes and Cigars at Cut Rates, Mr. Daniels, of Beekman Street, to Be Driven Out of Business. COTTON SENT UP

For selling cigars and cigarettes a cut rates H. R. Daniels, of No. 14 Beekman street, is to be crushed and ruined by the Metropolitan Tobacco Company (part of the trust). That ultimatum was issued by the agent of the trust to-day, and nothing but ruin faces the individual dealer who is struggling to make a living and giving his customers the best he can for the least money. In the eyes of the trust magnets this is a crime.

"I have been dealing with the Metropolitan Tobacco Company, which controls all the output of cigarettes and cigars in the Metropolitan district, for five years," Mr. Daniels said to-day. "I have paid my bills every month. They run from $130 to $150 and the cash has always been here. On Tuesday, the thirteenth, I received a statement for $37. I wondered what was up but I didn't have long to wait. The agent who has been supplying me twice a week came in.

"I want payment on that last statement, he said, 'and I am instructed to say that hereafter we will not serve you for love or money.

"We are determined to put you out of business if it ruins you. We may have to lease your store over your head to do it, and if we can't do that we will put a man near here to undersell you, give the goods away if necessary. No matter how we do it we are bound to force you out of business in this city and we'll follow you to the end.

"Of course," Mr. Daniels continued, "I can do nothing. I don't know where to turn to get supplies. I suppose I am to be ruined all because I can sell my wares cheaper than my neighbors."

Daniels's store is very small. to-day, and nothing but ruin faces the
